

Wanted to go for a clean, minimalistic, almost techy like aesthetic. The accent colors were based on the actual Kilter board app that the climbs are based on. Felt that dark mode would allow the colors of the holds to pop more and grab the user's attention.

Similar to before, wanted a clean, readable and functional typography to match. Wanted it to be very easy and straightforward, something that gave off “modern” and “sleek”. I like sans-serif fonts, or potentially using very smooth, sharp serif fonts as well.
